- Sept 1208 Room and light
- I saw a room it was large and all the walls were covered in thick heavy drapes, the room was warm and well lit from an electric light. The room was filled with familiar things that all represented activities and actions. I knew this was a representation of my life, it was familiar and comfortable. Then I saw a shaft of light was coming into the room through the curtain. The light was brighter and had a quality about it that initially drew me to it. I stood in the light and it increased but I was drawn back to the familiar as it called to me. I turned and saw the light again it had returned to the single shaft I knew that there was the offer of something more so I made a decision to stand in the light as I did it began to shine brighter and more intently and like a pin hole camera I could see into something else. The familiar began to call but I was determined to stay.

- Then the drapes began to part and it was like a whole new world, just a glimpse but now I was determined see more. The world was covered by what seemed by like net curtain that reduced the light and accustomed my eyes to the brightness but I couldn't see clearly. The more intensely I focused and desired the clearer it got. I was beginning to see into reality as God intended and also noticed that I could turn off the light in the room and that all familiar objects appeared different somehow. I then saw that there wasn't just a window or plane in front on me but the drapes started to fold back on themselves like shutters giving me a 360 degree view of reality from God's perspective.
